

Rush Soccer is pleased to announce our newest domestic partner club, Dallas Rush!

Spearheaded by Ian Stover, Director of Soccer Operations, Chad Deering, Director of Coaching, and Thorston Schmugge, Technical Director, Dallas Rush will be a brand new club, gaining players from various soccer organizations throughout Northern Texas.

“When it came to choosing a club to partner with, choosing Rush was a no brainer,” says Stover. “We’ve seen Rush Soccer build a tremendous reputation internationally and become wildly successful based on their commitment to the Rush Way.”

Dallas Rush will hold tryouts in June and anticipates about 600 players by the fall. The organization is in the process of securing land for a brand new complex.

“Northern Texas is one of the most competitive soccer environments in the nation,” says Tim Schulz, President and CEO of Rush Soccer. “We are very excited to bring the Rush brand to this area.”

Due to the size and number of players in Texas, the State is split into Texas North and Texas South. The Dallas Rush will play in the Texas North Association while Texas Rush, based in Houston suburbs of The Woodlands, will continue to play in Texas South. The two clubs are separate entities but will no doubt enjoy the benefits of playing nearer to one another.

With the addition of Dallas Rush, Rush Soccer now has 30 US-based partner clubs. Welcome, Dallas Rush!
